A Scoundrel Exposed

FIRST BAPTIST ...

Reports of a very important nature having come to the knowledge of the Baptist Church at Salem, Oregon, against the character and conduct of Elder W. F. Boyakin, the said church did, thereupon, call a special meeting and appoint a committee to investigate said reports and documents which were produced to the church by parties interested. The committee to whom was referred the above do report:

Whereas, On February 10th, 1866, this church did grant unto W. F. Boyakin, a letter of commendation which he wrote and presented to the church for action; and,

Whereas, The church did there and then, at the special instance and request of said Boyakin, grant him the above letter, that appeared in the Evangel of March 8th, 1866, at San Francisco, California; and,

Whereas, Boyakin has since that time shown himself by his licentiousness to be a villain of the blackest kind,

Therefore now, the Baptist Church of Salem, Oregon, do revoke said letter of commendation given to Boyakin, and that appeared in the Evangel of March 8th, 1866, and caution all lovers of truth, virtue, and the Baptist denomination everywhere throughout the United States, to beware of said Boyakin.

If any further information in regard to the above be wished, we refer to the Baptist churches at Salem, Amity and McMinville, Oregon.

Done by order of the Baptist Church at Salem, Oregon, April 16th, 1866.

THEY WANT TO TRADE.—We have information of quite a number of attempts on the part of Copperheads to effect a trade with Union men, in this way: They say, "Now, you don't like the nomination of Woods for Governor, I don't think much of Fay; Kelly is a good man, and between you and me, I would rather see Mallory elected than Fay; if you will vote for Kelly, I'll vote for Mallory." The same parties offer to swap off Lane or O'Meara in favor of Kelly and admit that the entire ticket except Kelly is too strong Copperhead; but he, they claim is a moderate, honest, good sort of man and not enough identified with the secession wing to be objectionable. They say they do not have any expectation of electing any of the nominees but Kelly, nor do they care to elect any of the others. The proposed trade looks all the time to votes for Kelly

This is a nice little piece of Democratic "strategy," but it ought not, and, we believe, will not catch anybody. Kelly has acted with the secession-rebel-Jones Democracy from the very beginning of the rebellion, and the convention of oath-bound Joneses, which refused to nominate Smith, their ablest man, because he had not "seen Jones," manifested its entire confidence in Kelly by nominating him without opposition. The same men who thrust Fay and O'Meara upon the convention, were perfectly satisfied with Kelly. Had he been such a man as he is represented by these Democratic huckstering strategists, he could not have got the vote of a corporal's guard of the Joneses in that convention. They knew their man, and knew that if not disposed to be really a rebel himself, he would be a tool in their hands, if elected.

Union men, vote the the Union ticket straight through. Scratch no man's name. You can elect the whole Union ticket by a rousing majority and it is your duty to do it. There is not a man on it but is superior in every essential qualification, to the rebel-sympathizing ticket. There is no man on our ticket but is in favor of perpetuating the Government, sustaining the national credit, and putting it out of the power of treason-hatchers to embroil us again in the calamities from which the country has just emerged. You cannot trade one of them off for even a diluted traitor without being badly cheated. Stick to the Union platform, Union principles and the Union candidates.

> But when these bullies—the invincible "chivalry"—were confronted by the outraged men of the North, who had been called cowards, the said proud chivalry sank upon their knees and begged for their cowardly lives.—Oregonian.

> Yes, they begged at Bull Run and at Harper's Ferry; begged at Fredericksburg and at Richmond; begged at Charleston, South Carolina, and at Mobile; begged at Donaldson and at Corinth; begged at Pea Ridge and at Lexington; begged at Shiloh and at Antietam; begged at Chicamauga and at Galveston.—Oregon Herald.

Still bragging of Bull Run! You overlooked the brilliant democratic victory at Fort Pillow. How it rejoices your democratic heart to remember and gloat over these famous battles where five chivs proved themselves more than a match for one Union man! These were glorious times, were they not, neighbor Jones, when your democratic friends beat back the abolition hordes of the "tyrant Lincoln," and made all good men tremble for your success and the downfall of the Republic? Didn't you enjoy them? Didn't your chivs slay our soldiers in gallant style at the places you so exultantly mention? And when the news came flashing over the wires, appalling humanity and striking the great heart of the nation with an almost unutterable woe, your heart didn't feel any pain, did it? You didn't go snivelling around like a pusillanimous Yankee, did you? No, like a true chiv, you rubbed your palms with glee, didn't you? Didn't you say, "Ah, ha! didn't I tell you the South could never be conquered?" You didn't feel like going to a funeral did you? No, you went to see Jones, and to exchange gratulations, didn't you? Oh, no, you will never forget to brag of Bull Run!

The Democrats had a pole raising at Lebanon, Linn county, a few days since. When the pole had reached an elevation of about thirty degrees, it broke at the splice and came down. Fortunately no one was hurt, but the attempt was abandoned.

The Good Templars of Linn county have arranged to have a pic-nic at Lebanon, on May day

A proposition to increase the capital stock of the Linn County Agricultural Association is pending. A meeting of stockholders to deliberate upon the matter, is to take place at Albany, May 12th. An assessment of $10 per share has been levied on the stock.

The State Journal says, "a copperhead or some other petty thief," relieved the drawer of that office, of some change during last week.

The Circuit Court for Lane county was in session last week, but only a small amount of business came before it.

The steamer Active continues to make trips to Eugene City.

An assessment of 10 per cent. has been levied on the stock of the Oregon Central Military Road Company. A meeting of stockholders to elect Directors will be held May 24th.

The Directors of the Oregon City Paper Manufacturing Company met last Saturday and elected W. W. Buck President of the Board and James D Miller Secretary. They levied an assessment of fifty per cent. on the capital stock and authorized the Secretary to advertise for proposals to build a three story brick building, thirty by sixty feet, for the use of the company. See their advertisement in another column.

An Eastern journal which wants the leading rebels who have been "reconstructed" by the President admitted into Congress without further delay, says:

> It has cost too much blood and treasure to render reconstruction possible, to permit the practical dismemberment of the Union to continue indefinitely. What our sons and brothers have fought for and died for can not be unnecessarily delayed, with impunity

Just so, but our brothers did not fight to bring back into the National Legislature the perjured rebels who stamped on the old flag, murdered their comrades in battle, and starved them by tens of thousands in those Aceldamas at Andersonville and Saulsbury. Our brothers fought to restore the Union, but not to place guilty rebels in Congress. And to give those bloody-handed traitors the highest places in the nation is precisely what the Copperheads mean by "reconstruction."

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO APRIL 20.

President Johnson makes another Speech.

CHICAGO, April 19.—President Johnson, in reply to a serenade from the soldiers and sailors last evening, said: We are involved in the most critical and trying struggle that have occurred since this Government came into existence. The Government has another trial still to go through that is to give evidence to the nations of the earth and its own citizens that it has power enough to put down treachery at home and treason within its own borders. [Cheers.] We have commenced that struggle, and I trust in God we will press the [illegible]. The organized and combined powers that recently were arrayed against us are subdued and driven from the field, but it does not follow that there are no enemies and traitors against our present form of Government and our institutions. I stood in the Senate of the United States giving the doctrine of secession [illegible] I think I have given some evidence that I have been sincere and in earnest, and now I want to know why it is that the whole pack of [illegible] are snapping at my heels. [Cheers.] Why is it they are array themselves against me? Is it because I stand on the side of the people? and when I say the people I include the soldiers and sailors. [Cheers.] Why is it they are arrayed in traducing and vilifying me? [illegible] Where were they during the rebellion? [A voice—"at home in bed."] In the South I raised my voice against it, and when it was believed it would be to the interest of the nation to assist in putting down the rebellion and I [illegible] my place in the Senate, a place of emolument and distinction, and take any position where the enemy could be reached, and where men's lives were in danger, [cheers] while I was opposed personally and publicly by some of my present traducers and calumniators who were far removed from the fire and who were enjoying ease and comfort. But I care not for them. I care not that slander, the foul whelp of sin, has been let loose against me. I care not for all that, and let me tell you here to-day that although pretty well advanced in life, I feel that I shall survive long enough to live down the whole pack of traducers and slanderers. [Applause.] They have turned the whole pack loose to lower me in your estimation. [A voice—"They cannot do that."] Blanche, Tray, Sweetheart and all the little dogs come along, snapping at my heels, but I heed them not. [Cheers.] The American people, citizens, soldiers and sailors, know that from my advent into public life to the present hour, I have always stood, the unyielding and unwavering defender of their rights and interests. When rebellion in Massachusetts was put down, did that put Massachusetts out of the Union and destroy the State? When rebellion in Pennsylvania was put down, did that destroy the State and put it out of the Union? So when the recent great rebellion was closed, those States constituting a part of the glorious Union were restored.

A great deal was done in Tennessee under my predecessor. We commenced the work together, we succeeded before I assumed my present position in restoring the troubles which had existed between Tennessee and the rest of the Union with one exception, and that was representation. I came to Washington under extraordinary circumstances and succeeded to the Presidency. What then? Congress had adjourned without presenting any plan. I then proceeded, as I have been doing in my own State, to restore the other States. We found the people had no courts, and we said to the Judges, District Attorneys and Marshals, Go down and hold your courts, the people need that the tribunals of justice shall be opened. Was that wrong? The courts were opened. We looked about and saw that the people down there had no mails. They had been interrupted and cut off by the rebellion. We said to the Postmaster General, let the people have mail facilities and then they will begin to understand what we all feel and think that we are one people. We looked about and saw that there was a blockade, that the custom houses were closed, and we said let the doors of the custom houses be opened and remove the blockade. Let trade and commerce be restored, and it was done. We thus traveled, opening custom houses, restoring mails and re-establishing all the customs that had been interrupted by the rebellion. Was there anything here that was not authorized by the constitution and justified by the great necessities of the case? Now what remains to be done? It is to admit their representatives. [Cheers.] When we say admit representatives in a constitutional and law-abiding sense we intended at the beginning of the Government, all that is needed is for the Houses respectively to determine the question. But some one will say, a traitor might come in. The answer to that is, that each House must be the judge, and when traitors present themselves cannot either House know that they are traitors? Cannot they kick them out of doors and send them back, saying to the people who sent them, you must send loyal men? [Cheers, and a voice, that's logic.] What is the difficulty about that? None. [Cheers.] If a traitor presents himself to either House, cannot that House say, no, you cannot be admitted into either body; go back; we will not deny your people representation, but they must send us loyal representatives. [Cheers.] When the State does send loyal representatives can you have any better loyalty. While I have been contending against traitors, treason, secession and dissolution of the Union, I have been at the same time contending against the consolidation of power here. I think that the consolidation of power here, is equally dangerous with the separation of the States. That one would not be better used and might run into anarchy, while the other would concentrate and entail even monarchy. But there is an idea abroad that one man can be a despot, that one man can be an usurper, but that one or two hundred men cannot. Mr. Jefferson, the apostle of liberty tells us, and so does common sense, that despotism can be exercised by many more rigorously than by one. What power has your President? What can he do? What can he originate? Why, they say he exercises the veto power. What is the veto power? [A voice—A veto to put down the nigger. Laughter.] Who is President? [Voices—Andy Johnson.] Is he not elected by the people? The President is nothing more than the Tribune of the people—the official Tribune in character. In olden times when the Roman Senate was encroaching on the peoples' rights, and putting its heels of power on the necks of the people, the people chose a Tribune and placed him at the door of the Senate, so that when that power ventured such an act he was clothed with power to say, "Veto; I forbid." Your President now is the Tribune of this people. I thank God, and intend to assert the power which the people have placed in my hands.

Additional about the Explosion at Aspinwall.

The European arrived at Aspinwall on the morning of the 2d instant, and on the afternoon of the same day came to alongside the Railroad Company's wharf, used by this line in discharging cargo. Nearly all local freight was out when, about 7 o'clock on evening of the 3d, a terrific explosion occurred on board, which took away the upper parts of the ship and blew several large planks off the side. The wharf at which the vessel was laying, and which was some four hundred feet long, was literally torn to pieces. The superstructure was completely demolished to within a hundred feet of the freight house, and hardly a plank remained in the entire length of the structure that was not wrenched from its fastenings. Immediately in front of where the vessel lay, a pass was cut through the wharf, piles, planking, etc., all disappearing. The ship and wharf both caught fire, and the latter was saved from entire destruction only by the exertion of several citizens, who got the fire engine to work, and after a full hour, extinguished the flames, regardless of the risk they incurred from another explosion of the burning ship.

The Panama Railroad Company's splendid freight house is left a pile of ruins. The force of air caused by the concussion seems to have raised the iron and slate upward a few feet, its own weight bringing it down with immense force into the building, and carrying with it both end walls, leaving the house, except the side walls, which appeared but little if at all injured, a mass of ruins.

It would be difficult to imagine a more complete wreck than that presented by the freight house and wharf. Fears being entertained that a second explosion would occur, as the cause of the disaster was still unknown, and none of the officers or crew of the ship were left who could give any explanation of its cause, it was thought best to have the burning ship towed into the stream. The royal mail steamship Lamart, which had arrived the evening before, immediately got up steam and prepared to tow the burning ship, but before this could be accomplished another explosion took place, though not of sufficient force to cause any injury. It was supposed to be the magazine, which contained a small quantity of powder for ship's use. The Lamart then made fast to the burning hulk and towed her out. The two vessels barely reached the opposite side of the bay when another explosion more terrific than the first occurred, but fortunately the ship being far from the city and in deep water, no harm resulted. The last explosion is supposed to have broken up the hull, as in less than half an hour after it occurred the unfortunate ship went down. The top of her smoke stack is the only part visible. The West Indian and Pacific Co's Steamship Carribean, which lay in close proximity to the European at the time of the first explosion has sustained serious injury. Her immense iron girders are snapped in twain. Thirteen of her frames were broken and the knees and braces of the heaviest timbers were torn from their places. All her boats are rendered useless by the concussion and everything of a fragile nature shattered into fragments. It is now pretty certain that the explosion was caused by the combustion of glonoin oil. There was on board, shipped under an ordinary bill of lading for a mining company in San Francisco, about seventy cases. The estimated damage reaches, at the least computation, $1,000,000, and very possibly it will exceed that amount. Scarcely a building in the place escaped without damage those of a substantial nature suffering most. Nearly all the brick and stone buildings were badly injured, but the freight house is the only one rendered uninhabitable. Hardly a whole window of glass remains in the city, and the destruction of glassware crockery and such like, is really wonderful. Although many vessels were lying in close proximity to the European at the time of the disaster, none excepting the Carribean, sustained any serious damage. Some immense iron girders, nearly twelve inches deep, were snapped off like pipe stems. Thirteen of her frames were broken. The knees and braces of the heaviest timbers were torn from their places. All her boats, and in fact everything light was torn to pieces.

The loss of life by disaster is much greater than was anticipated. From 50 to 60 persons have been killed, including those who have died of their wounds. The Railroad Company's hospital is full of wounded, most of whom are doing well. The ruins of the freight house have been examined, and as yet four dead bodies have been discovered. In the water near the dock two bodies have been recovered also. Of the souls on board the European at the time of the explosion only 12 are uninjured. Lost (known) from ship, Capt. Cole, Mr Glass, Chief Officer, Mr. Parsons, Second Officer, Mr Burrows, Surgeon, Ed Davis, carpenter, W. Pritchard, sailor, J. A. Young, sailor, W Brennand, sailor, Richard, cabin boy. Known from shore: Mr Salvo, and 13 others. Missing, from shore, unknown.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—Judge Pratt, to-day granted the application of the California State Telegraph Company for an injunction restraining the United States Pacific Telegraph Company from doing business between the cities of San Francisco, Sacramento, Marysville and Stockton. In rendering his decision Judge Pratt took grounds that there was no doubt but what the act of 1852 intended to give the California State Telegraph Co. the exclusive privilege of transacting all the business of transmitting telegrams between these points for a period of 15 years. It would be an act of bad faith on the part of the State to interfere with the privileges thus granted. The plaintiffs had constructed the Telegraph line at a great expense, with the understanding that they were to enjoy exclusive business between these points as a compensation for their trouble and outlay, and to act in bad faith in this matter would establish a precedent which would be demoralizing in its effects, and tend to create a feeling of distrust in the legislature and courts of the State.

Judge Geo. W. Tyler appeared before the United States District Court this morning to receive sentence for practicing law without a Federal license. Judge Hoffman in passing sentence, remarked that Tyler had made, he thought, a great deal of trouble in the matter, having fought it inch by inch, and he should therefore be obliged to impose a heavier penalty than he had previously imposed in other cases whereat the defendants had plead guilty. He then sentenced him to pay a fine of $100.

Last Saturday afternoon a party of men who were holding possession of a tract of land in the western addition, were amusing themselves shooting at a target, when one of the men proposed to try the experiment of shooting through the house on the premises, not supposing any one was inside. Unfortunately, Andrew [illegible], a Swede, was in the building at the time and was killed, the ball entering the back near the spinal column, inflicting a wound from which he died yesterday afternoon.

EXCESS OF COMPLIMENTS.—An exchange says: "The President has conferred the degree of D. D. on John W. Forney." To which a radical organ replies "Yes, and Forney has conferred the degree of D. D. on the President." What does the fellow mean by that we wonder? Is it allusion to the circumstance of Forney's having charge that the President was very drunk when he made that speech? But D. D. doesn't stand for Very Drunk.

LOSS OF THE STEAMER LABOUCHERE. Mr. W. D. Bixby, one of the passengers on the ill-fated steamer Labouchere, who arrived in this city by the steamship Montana, has given us some particulars concerning the disaster, additional to those already received. The steamer left San Francisco at 3 o'clock P. M. on Saturday the 14th, and struck on the southern reef of Point Reyes at 10:10 P. M., bow on, apparently sliding off, and immediately after struck again, running her bow high out of the water, listing to port side, so that it was impossible to stand on deck without clinging to something for support. An instant before she struck the order had been given to stop and back, but the engines could not be reversed in time, and after remaining a few minutes she was backed off into deep water and the pumps put to work. It was discovered that the ship was leaking badly. In half an hour the water was up to the fire room floor and in three-fourths of an hour, the pumps having all been well manned, the ship was freed so that the steam pumps kept her free for the next four hours. She was headed for San Francisco immediately after the disaster, the pumps keeping her afloat. The ship-carpenter partially succeeded in the stopping of the leak, but at about 4 A. M. Sunday, it was found a new leak had sprung, and the water ran in so fast that it was found impossible to keep it down, and the fires were utterly extinguished at about 5 o'clock. The night was very foggy, and the commander deemed it advisable not to attempt to run in until daylight, at which time it was found the ship was about three miles from Point Reyes, the nearest land. The fires then being out, and the machinery of course not available for use, the small boats were lowered and all the passengers and crew [illegible] in effecting a landing, with the exception of [illegible] black men who were drowned by the upsetting of a boat. Their names were James Marshal, a Cariboo miner, [illegible] Taylor and Geo. Lawrence, employees of the first named. The cause of the accident was attributed by the Captain to the variation of the compass, which was new, and had been placed on board but a short time previous to the sailing of the ship. The steamer had been thoroughly overhauled before leaving San Francisco. The passengers generally seem inclined to give the Captain great credit for his coolness and excellent management, during the exciting scenes. Like a true seaman, he was the last man to leave the wreck, seeing that order was preserved in getting the passengers ashore. Two [illegible], Mr. Dickinson of Victoria, and Mr. Frank [illegible], are also entitled to great credit for their coolness and action, having volunteered to perform important service and remain on board until the last. There were at least 140 passengers on board, of whom seven were ladies, and two youthful sons of the commander, Captain [illegible], aged nine and eleven years respectfully, also two [illegible] of Mrs. Martin, of Victoria. The following are the names of the ladies who were on board: Mrs. [illegible], Miss Ellen Complisko, Mrs. Simon Martin, Mrs. Adeline Smith, Mrs. Mary Dandler, Mrs. J. P. Pidwell, Mrs. J. J. Evans. The boats left the wreck at 6 o'clock A. M., and landed safely at 7 o'clock, about midway between the two points. The mail, express and treasure was saved, and a good part of the baggage was brought ashore, but was rifled by the crew of the ship. The ship sunk at 8:00 A. M., in about 40 fathoms of water, going down bow first, and after remaining in a perpendicular position for a few moments finally settled down entirely.

LECTURE OF COL. HAWKINS.—We have barely time to allude to the lecture of Col. Hawkins, delivered at the [illegible] Church last evening—which was listened to by nearly 1,000 people with the greatest interest. The speaker has a pleasant style of handling the subject discoursed upon last evening, which was mainly detailing the true [illegible] of loyalty that existed in East Tennessee, between the Cumberland and Smoky Mountains, all through the late bitter struggle for the maintainance of the integrity of the American Union, and his very manner was [illegible] to impress upon his listeners the truth of [illegible]. That the people of East Tennessee, who (as the Colonel says he was) were taught from their infancy to believe that a Yankee was not a human being, were patriots in the broadest sense of the term, cannot be denied when it is remembered what they suffered during the war. With all the loyal hearts of the North they felt that when the old flag had been struck by rebel hands on Sumter's walls, they too had been hit and insulted, and they passed through a fearful ordeal to gain [illegible] loyalty to defend the emblem of American liberty. We look upon Col. Hawkins as a true type of the East [illegible], and we bespeak for him crowded houses, wherever he may go. He will speak at Oregon City on [illegible] evening. Rebels, North and South, according to his sentiments and practice, will not like him, but [illegible] that class of citizens never did have any regard for him since the war began, notwithstanding Jeff once offered [illegible] for his head, and he don't intend to let them [illegible] him very much in future. He uses some of the Brownlow spirit in his speeches, but in asking pardon for it, he [illegible] the matter by saying that "Brownlowism [illegible] national in East Tennessee." Union men, [illegible], will applaud Colonel Hawkins.

[illegible].—Wiley Kenyon, Esq., of Salem, owner of [illegible] quartz interests at Santiam, is now in this city en route for the Atlantic States, for the purpose of [illegible] mines to the attention of Eastern capitalists. [illegible] goes abundantly supplied with proofs of the [illegible] Santiam, having the finest cabinet of rich [illegible] that it has ever been our lot to look at in any place. The cabinet consists of specimens from the various ledges, all of which are very handsome, and fully [illegible] of gold and silver. He also has maps drawn [illegible] surveys, that will show the bearing of every [illegible], give a good idea of the region, location, dips, angles, etc., which is of importance to [illegible]. The map drawn by Mr. Curley shows the [illegible] of Gold Mountain, in which most of the principal ledges are situated, with the tunnels of each company, and the work done upon the ledges. The Union Company's claims are shown on the North side of Gold Mountain, [illegible] at the summit; they own interests in the White Bull, Briggs, Calf, and May ledges. The San[illegible] and [illegible] Companies are located on the South side of the same mountain. The Salem Company have a tunnel, on the South side of the mountain, low down on the [illegible] ledge, 160 feet deep, where they are getting out a good quality of silver ore. Mr. K. shows some [illegible] taken from the upper tunnel of the White Bull ledge. The same class of rock is found in the [illegible]. Work has been slowly prosecuted in Santiam, but from the character of the specimens in Mr. Kenyon's [illegible], we know most assuredly that no richer deposits [illegible] be found in any district, and we certainly trust [illegible] may be successful in bringing to the assistance of the [illegible] now being made there, some of the capital of the East which is seeking investment.

[illegible] NEW JERSEY.—Col. Hawkins says it was [illegible] provoking to him to have questions asked him by [illegible] in New Jersey, when he "came up [illegible]" after the war, concerning the "loyalty" of East Tennessee. After the valley had given 30,000 majority [illegible] and attempted to stay the passage of the ordinance of secession, then sent 15,000 men from their homes to camp Dick Robinson to be mustered into the Union army, and could show at one time 25,000 armed men standing in the front ranks among the noble [illegible] of the Union, it would appear that there was some loyalty in that part of the State, and it would be enough to irritate almost any one to have a New Jersey [illegible]," previous to the last election, at least, ask if there were any loyal men in East Tennessee. Jeff. Davis thought there was some of that spirit there, at the time he took possession of Cumberland Gap, for the purpose of "protecting" [illegible] from the Yankees, but he did not anticipate there was any great amount of loyalty those days in New Jersey. He was hoping for that "fire in the rear."

[illegible] COURT—J. F. HOFFMAN J., April 23d, 1866. Ms Pay, the Celestial woman, accused of larceny committed in San Francisco, was found not guilty and discharged, and the costs were adjudged to be paid by the complainant. [illegible] Depute, Chas Hudson, E. J. Kennedy and J. C. [illegible], all found guilty of drunks were sent to jail for two days each.

A "SHOP" PLACE.—Mr. P. Coakley, after a long and very satisfactory service at the New Columbian Hotel, has left his employers and instituted a business for himself on Morrison street, between Front and First streets. [illegible] will be found in another column. He keeps a neat and quiet saloon.

SAN FRANCISCO DIRECT.—There is a report in circulation that the steamer Montana sails via Victoria. This [illegible] only she will go direct from this port to San Francisco. The Orizaba will sail for the same destination direct, this evening. The advertisement appears [illegible] in our columns this morning.

SHIPMENTS OF FLOUR.—The reduction of freight tariffs on flour for the Columbia river has considerably stimulated shipments. We noticed yesterday there were large [illegible] on the wharf for transportation to-day, and the [illegible] is very likely to rapidly increase for some days.

MAY FESTIVAL.—We understand the Good Templars of this city will have a festival on Ross Island, on the 12th of May. Also that the children of the Sabbath Schools of the city propose having one at the same place, on the [illegible] day.

THE WEATHER.—Spring dry goods were in active demand yesterday. Flies were also swarming largely over those streets that require attention from the health committee, and the construction of sewers.

DROWNED.—A man named Jas. Clark, during a fit of intoxication on Sunday night, fell overboard from the dredging machine, or a scow in that vicinity, and was drowned. The body had not been found up to last night.

DENTAL.—Dr. C. H. Mack has removed his dental office to rooms in Parrish's building, on Washington street. See advertisement.

SANTIAM BRICK.—Mr. Kenyon has a brick of gold 670 fine, weighing 27 ounces, and valued at $510 02, which was made from sixty-one pounds of Santiam quartz.

THERE is an important message at the telegraph office in this city for Patrick Owens, also for S. Y. Chadwick and Isaac Davis.

THE GOLDEN AGE.—This steamship arrived at San Francisco on Sunday evening.

READ THE concluding part of Senator Williams great [illegible], published on fourth page.

[illegible] AND CONVENIENT.—BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES are widely and favorably known as a remedy for [illegible], Hoarseness, Coughs, and other troubles of the Throat and Lungs. They are of great value for the purpose for which they are designed, while they are usually and [illegible] efficacious, they contain no hurtful ingredients, but may at all times be used with perfect safety.—Boston Recorder.

A TRUE PICTURE.—By calling on ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL at the CARDWELL PHOTOGRAPHIC GALLERY, 80 First Street persons may get the MOST BEAUTIFUL as well as the MOST LIFE-LIKE PICTURE of themselves in this country. A single trial of the skill of MR. DESMOND, the distinguished Operator, will completely convince the most sceptical.

HOSTETTER'S.
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

READ AND REFLECT.

Make sure of HEALTH. "But how?" you ask;
We answer, 'tis an easy task,
Strengthen the STOMACH, and sustain
The NERVES, the servants of the brain.
The LIVER keep in active play
And regulate, from day to day
Each organ aid, on nature's plan,
Brace and refresh the INNER MAN,
And like a watch that's kept in chime
By constant care, with railroad time,
The system's tone and strength renew,
And thereby cheer the spirits, too.
"How," you inquire, "can this be done?
This Victory o'er Disease be won?"
"HOSTETTER'S BITTERS," we reply,
Is HEALTH'S SUPREME PROTECTION—TRY!

As a means of regenerating the disordered and enfeebled system, regulating every function of the internal organs, reviving the depressed spirits, invigorating the constitution, and prolonging life, no medicinal preparation either of the past or the present time, has been so completely and universally successful as

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Against the vapors foul prepare,
That fever-taint the heavy air.
Drink not unmixed the water found
In prairies, woods or marshy ground.
If sedentary toil you ply,
Nature you must assist—or die—
For when debarred from exercise
Her artificial aid she cries.
Medicine's grand purpose and intent
Is threatened evil to prevent.
And if you'd be relieved or spared
From ills that crush the unprepared,
Hostetter's Bitters use—for note
They are the SUREST ANTIDOTE.

To set at defiance the miasma of unhealthy soils, the poison of unwholesome water, the effluvia of crowded work-rooms and factories, and the baneful influence of sedentary employments, it is only necessary to be forearmed with

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Dyspepsia's pangs, that rack and grind
The body, and depress the mind;
Agues, that as they go and come,
Make life a constant martyrdom;
Colics and dysentric pains,
'Neath which the strong man's vigor wanes;
Bilious complaints, those tedious ills,
Ne'er conquered yet by drastic pills;
Dread diarrhoea that cannot be
Cured by destructive mercury;
Slow constitutional decay
That brings Death nearer, day by day;
Nervous prostration, mental gloom—
Heralds of madness or the tomb;
For these—though mineral nostrums fail—
Means of Relief at least we hail,
HOSTETTER'S BITTERS—medicine sure,
Not to prevent, alone, but cure.

In dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious complaints, constitutional and nervous debility, constipation, sea-sickness, spasms, and in all complaints of Man or Woman, proceeding from casual or inherent weakness of the body, the one great remedy and restorative is

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

To wanderers on sea or land,
From Polar shore to Tropic strand;
To households lone, in regions new,
And dwellers in great cities, too;
To soldiers in camp, fort and field,
Who need against disease a shield;
To miners, California bound,
And tillers of wet, marshy ground,
To feeble wives of fragile mold,
To young and middle aged and old,
To those in health who would enjoy
Heaven's best gifts without alloy;
To all the strengthless, weak and pale,
Who droop, yet know not what they ail,
Hostetter's Bitters we present
As Health's most potent element.

The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

M. HOWARD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE,
315 Montgomery St., San Francisco.

THE ABOVE PREPARATION, WHICH HAS BEEN recently discovered and patented, is purely a Vegetable Extract.

The undersigned are fully aware of the many unsatisfactory and useless preparations for restoring hair that have been introduced to the public, and how little confidence is to be placed in any pretensions to restoring the hair to bald heads, but having tried MR. HOWARD'S PREPARATION, we are able to state that it not only prevents the hair from falling out, but absolutely reproduces it, and that we now have good suits of hair growing where we were entirely bald. Therefore, as a matter of justice to Mr. Howard, and of consolation to bald heads we tender him this testimonial. Mr. H. keeps the article for sale in bottles with directions for its use, or applies it himself, as may be desired.

SPEECH OF SENATOR WILLIAMS,

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES FEBRUARY [illegible] 1866

I feel [illegible] Massachusetts [illegible] Constitution [illegible]

Sir [illegible]

But sir is the purpose of the [illegible] from Massachusetts to [illegible] it is my opinion that it is an [illegible] that a very large majority of the people of the United States [illegible] such a law [illegible] the next political [illegible] and those who oppose it will strive to elect men in favor of its repeal. A majority of this Congress may [illegible] expediency [illegible] the [illegible] Senator from Kentucky [illegible] and so the political rights of [illegible] people will [illegible] varying as the capricious fortunes of the political parties of the country.

And [illegible] it will [illegible] a matter of course that the doors of Congress will be thrown open at once to the Representatives of the rebel States and is there any reason to suppose that the rebel element which is now predominant in those States will [illegible] that vote [illegible] make its entire representation [illegible] representation possibly [illegible] and the perpetuity of this Union. I say frankly that I [illegible] future interests [illegible] the life of this nation that the rebel States should have a limited representation in Congress until the great questions growing out of the late war are adjusted or in a sure process of adjustment than that the negroes anywhere should immediately vote.

Sir although there is question about it it seems to me there can be but little doubt that at this particular time the negroes of the rebel States are unfit to exercise the elective franchise. I have recently conversed with two officers of the Federal Army from Texas who told me that there in the interior and agricultural portions of that State the negroes do not yet know that they are free; and one of these officers told me that he personally communicated [illegible] negroes the fact of their freedom. Emancipation may be known in the towns and cities throughout the South but the probabilities are that in the agricultural portions of that country the negroes have no knowledge that they are free, or only vague conceptions of their rights and duties as freemen. Sir give them a little time give them a chance to learn that they are free give them a chance to acquire a little knowledge of their rights as freemen give them a chance to learn that they are independent and can act for themselves give them a chance to divest themselves of that feeling of entire dependence for subsistence and the sustenance of their families upon the landholders of the South to which they have been so long accustomed give them a little time to shake the manacles off their minds that have been stricken off their hands and I will go with the honorable Senator from Massachusetts to give them the right of suffrage; and I will here express the hope that the day is not far distant when every man born on American soil within the pale of civilization may defend his manhood and his rights as a freeman by the most effective ballot which—

"Executes the freeman's will
As lightning does the will of God."

I suppose that I ought as well as I have alluded to this question of constitutional amendments refer to the proposed substitute offered by the honorable Senator from Missouri [Mr Henderson]. I confess that I was somewhat surprised the other day to hear the honorable Senator characterize the amendments which had been reported from the committee of fifteen after two or three weeks deliberation and after it had passed the other house by a majority of more than two-thirds as stuff and nonsense and say that the amendment which he proposed was sufficient in the place of all constitutional amendments or congressional legislation in reference to former slaves. I will not assail the amendment proposed by the honorable Senator in the same manner in which he attacked the report of the committee, but I will remark that the constitutional amendment which he offers as a substitute allows a State to make any discrimination that is not founded in race or color. New York State under that constitutional amendment, might exclude every man born in Europe from the right of suffrage or representation. Any discrimination could be founded upon nativity, intelligence, condition, circumstances, sex, and upon anything and everything provided that it is not founded on race; and to adopt that amendment at this time and in this form would seem to give countenance to the charge so often made that we are more willing to make laws and constitutional amendments for black men rather than for white men.

I object to this constitutional amendment of the Senator from Missouri because it allows all the Indians in the States of the Union to vote. Sir, the bloodthirsty and murderous Sioux of Minnesota, the Cayuses and the Walla Wallas and the Snakes, that banditti of the desert in Oregon and the Digger Indians of California are all made voters by the Senator's constitutional amendment, and invested with that high prerogative of American citizenship. Does the honorable Senator suppose that the State of Minnesota, or the State of Oregon, or the State of California would submit from choice to this degradation if not danger of political association?

Mr Henderson.—I hope that the Senator will permit me to suggest just at this point, that he is clearly mistaken in the statement that he now makes. I thought that he did me great injustice a moment ago but I did not choose to interfere. Now, certainly he does me great injustice in supposing that I have offered an amendment which would force California, Minnesota, and other States to permit Indians to vote. As I understand, California provides in her constitution to day that a man to vote must be a citizen of the United States nearly all the States so provide. A man to vote in the Senator's own State, must also be a qualified citizen of the United States. The other day we declared that certain persons were citizens of the United States; but he knows perfectly well that all Indians not taxed were excluded by that bill which we propose to pass; and not as the Indians referred to are separated from the tribal authority, unless they have become indeed citizens of the State and of the United States by virtue of the law which we now propose to pass, they cannot vote under this constitutional amendment. The States need not say that they excluded the Indians in consequence of the fact that they are of a different race or color, but they may simply say that no man shall vote unless he is a citizen of the United States, and that surely will exclude every Indian to whom the Senator refers. He is certainly doing me a very great injustice.

Mr Williams.—Mr. President, this is a constitutional amendment, and is to endure. The law to which the gentleman refers, in the first place is not a law; it has passed the Senate but has not yet passed the House of Representatives; but if this constitutional amendment is adopted by Congress and ratified by the States taking the law as it now stands, I say it will make the wild and untamed savages of the wilderness and the desert voters in the United States.

Mr Henderson.—These Indians are not now citizens, and if that law is passed or repealed, they would still not be citizens. They never were citizens, and no matter what our legislation is here, any State in the Union that wants to prevent her Indians from voting can do so. The Senator certainly must see the proposition.

Mr Williams.—I may misunderstand this proposed amendment, but it declares that no State shall make any discrimination on account of race or color. Now, if the State of Oregon provides that Indians within that State shall not vote it would be discrimination on account of race.

Mr Henderson.—But the Senator does not understand me. I see now clearly he does not. Suppose that Oregon declares that no man shall vote unless he be a citizen of the United States will that not exclude all the Indians in his State that he speaks of, because they are not now citizens they are not proposed to be declared citizens, and whether they pass this law or not they will not be. Therefore Oregon need say nothing in regard to color or race, but simply say that no man who is not a citizen of the United States shall vote. That is the law of Oregon to day; hence all the Indians he speaks of are excluded.

Mr. Williams.—Citizenship in the United States, as I understand it, depends upon the will of Congress and if the views of the honorable Senator expressed the other day when he favored making all these Indians citizens should obtain in Congress, then it would follow that under this constitutional amendment they would be voters.

Mr Henderson.—Permit me to ask the Senator whether if an Indian separate himself from the tribal authority and the State taxes him, he does not believe that Indian ought to vote?

Mr Williams.—I do and that was the position I took the other day but the honorable Senator took the position that no such distinction should be made as I understood him.

Mr Henderson.—Surely not. The Senator misunderstood me. I did not propose, unless the Indian separate himself from his tribal authority, that he should ever be a citizen of the United States.

Mr Williams.—If all these explanations and annotations of the honorable Senator could accompany this proposed amendment throughout the United States he might be able to satisfy the people that it does not mean what it says but it is as broad and as comprehensive as the English language can make it, and it is intended to prevent any State from making discrimination between white men, Indians, negroes, or persons of any color or of any race.

I pass however, from that objection and I insist that the fatal and conclusive objection to the proposed substitute of the Senator from Missouri is that it cannot be adopted. All the impassioned declamation and all the vehement assertions of the honorable Senator do not change or affect the evidence before our eyes that the people of these United States are not prepared to surrender to Congress the absolute right to determine as to the qualifications of voters in the respective States or to adopt the proposition that all persons without distinction of race or color shall enjoy political rights and privileges equal to those now possessed by the white people of the country. Sir some of the States have lately spoken upon that subject. Wisconsin and Connecticut, northern loyal and republican States have recently declared that they would not allow the negroes within their own borders political rights; and it is probable that of the thirty-six States more than six at the most would at this time adopt the constitutional amendment proposed by the gentleman?

He says that he is right, and therefore his constitutional amendment should be adopted by Congress as a substitute for the one reported by the committee. [illegible] always expedient; it is not always practical to do exactly right. Slavery before the rebellion was as wrong and as wicked as it ever was. It was just as right to abolish slavery in 1860 as it was in 1865. But suppose before the rebellion occurred some one had moved in Congress to submit to the several States an amendment to the Constitution abolishing slavery would it have had the ghost of a chance for its adoption? Would not the country have laughed at a proposition of that kind and would not the honorable Senator himself have joined heartily in that laugh? He could have gone before the people as he may now and say this is right. But that would have availed nothing, for the people would [illegible] say nothing of its prejudices of the people would have scoffed at the argument. Congress cannot legislate [illegible] compel the people to adopt that to which the sentiment of the country is generally opposed. The [illegible] had not then come for the adoption of the constitutional amendment abolishing slavery. It was necessary that the events of the war should educate the public mind and prepare the people for its adoption; and now as the war has just closed, it is necessary that events should lead and educate the public mind before this constitutional amendment can be adopted. It can never be adopted as it is not sufficient to justify us in submitting a proposal to amend the Constitution to the people simply to say that in our judgment it is right. Many things are right but it may not be expedient to try to force them without any delay. It is no doubt right that the United States should be [illegible] of Great Britain reparation for the [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] Suppose the [illegible] New York [illegible] [illegible]

I object that [illegible] amendment [illegible] [illegible]

I ask the honorable Senator how his proposed amendment is to be executed? The Constitution will declare that there shall be no discrimination on account of race or color if this amendment be adopted. Suppose the State of New York retains its present constitutional provision providing that negroes shall have property worth $250 to be qualified to vote. What are you going to do? [illegible] Will Congress make war upon the State of New York to enforce the constitutional provision? What is the remedy? [illegible] State might still persist in the exclusion of persons on account of color or race. In that respect the proposed amendment of the committee has the great merit of executing itself. There is no escape from it. It is to be observed that the Senator's amendment is a mere limitation upon the power of the State; it does not operate directly upon individuals.

Another proposition has been submitted by the honorable Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. Doolittle,) as a substitute for the report of the committee, providing that representatives shall be apportioned according to the white male electors above twenty one years of age in the several States. I ask those who favor that proposition if it is necessary to strike out of political existence all the women in the United States and all persons under twenty one years of age in order to reach the condition of the lately enfranchised negroes? Adopt that substitute and you at once declare that more than one half of the white people of these United States shall be deprived of any right of representation in Congress for the purpose of providing for the negroes in the Southern States. That violates the fundamental principle adopted by our fathers when they framed the Constitution and it seems to me that it would be great injustice to adopt such a constitutional provision. Many good objections have been stated and urged to it. I will not repeat them; but it would operate unfairly, as it seems to me, because those States where the males exceed the females would have an undue proportion of the representation in Congress.

Moreover, that amendment undertakes to fix the qualification of voters in the several States by declaring forever that no person shall ever vote in any State under any circumstances, unless he be a man over twenty one years of age. Is it necessary in an amendment to the Constitution so to enact in order to meet the exigency that has grown out of the late convulsion in the country? Sir we all acknowledge that the primary object of all these amendments is to provide for the new state of things that has arisen out of the abolition of slavery.

Some Senators object to any constitutional amendments. Sir lately a constitutional amendment was adopted by the people abolishing slavery, and that constitutional amendment has created a new state of things in the United States. It has abolished a vast amount of property; it has overturned an aristocratic and powerful system; it has restored millions of people who were slaves to their rights as freemen and changed the whole aspect and condition of things in the lately rebellious States and it is reasonable therefore that some change in the Constitution should be made to meet the circumstances that have grown out of this revolution in the political and social system of the South.

Mr Henderson.—If the Senator will permit me I should like to ask him a question here. He says, as to the proposition of the Senator from Wisconsin to base representation on voters that it is very unjust to exclude women and the minors in the northern States who can be permitted to vote by their respective Legislatures or by the people in the formation of their constitutions. I should like to ask him if that be unjust how he makes it just that the negroes who cultivate the soil in the Southern States and who are loyal men and have been loyal men shall be excluded from representation for he says it is more desirable that they be excluded, a great deal more than that the negroes shall vote.

Mr Williams.—I am not surprised that the Senator is very much troubled about the right of women—

Mr Henderson.—I only quoted the language of the Senator. He said that it would be very unjust to exclude the women from representation. I only quoted his own language.

Mr Williams.—I desire to say that the constitutional amendment proposed by the honorable Senator from Wisconsin positively and absolutely strikes women and minors out of political existence while the proposition reported by the committee does no such thing but provides according to the principles incorporated into the Constitution by its framers, that the States shall regulate this matter, and if they do not regulate it according to the dictates of humanity and justice, they shall be punished. The gentleman assumes that the amendment reported by the committee is equivalent in its operation upon the negroes, to the proposition proposed by the honorable Senator from Wisconsin in its operation upon women and children; but in that he mistakes for this proposition of the committee is intended to induce the States to confer the right of suffrage and representation upon black people by declaring that if they do not do that the States shall be without representation to that extent in the Congress of the United States.

I wish to say a word upon the amendment proposed by the Senator from Massachusetts—and amendment has been piled upon amendment Pelion upon Ossa until it is very difficult to determine exactly what is the question before the Senate, but the honorable Senator from Massachusetts proposes to amend the committee's resolution by declaring that persons of color if States decline to allow them the right of suffrage, and so they become excluded from all taxation of every nature and description. I ask if that would be fair or just. Take the State of Maryland if you please. There institutions of government are provided, courts are established, and the law is administered, public institutions of various kinds are founded and maintained, roads and bridges are constructed all by taxation upon the people, and the negroes in that State enjoy to a greater or less extent the benefit of these institutions, and therefore they ought to pay a reasonable proportion of taxes for the blessings and benefits they enjoy from these public expenditures and institutions, though they may not be directly represented in Congress. Direct taxes are to be apportioned among the several States, and the constitutional amendment proposed by the committee proposes simply to deprive those persons who are disfranchised in the State of the right of representation, but when Congress imposes a direct tax upon a State it operates equally upon all the persons in the State and if the State is represented, the Representatives chosen by white people are as much interested in defeating any taxation as would be the Representatives directly chosen by black people. Negroes without votes would be just as well protected from direct taxes in Congress as white people with votes. But the power of the State would be reduced by subtracting the blacks from the basis of representation. I may be mistaken, but it is my opinion that the declaration which was quoted from Mr Otis by the honorable Senator from Massachusetts, that taxation without representation is tyranny, and which was made to have great weight in the discussion did not mean that every individual who was taxed in a community should be represented; but at that time the colonies were without representation in the Parliament of Great Britain, and Parliament was imposing taxes upon the colonies. I had supposed the meaning of that expression to be that it was tyranny for one Government to tax a State or a community or a colony without allowing that State, community or colony representation in the Government imposing the tax. I never understood that our fathers intended to say that any Government that did not allow every man, woman, and child within its jurisdiction, whose property was taxed, a right of representation, was a tyranny.

Mr. President, the committee of fifteen have proposed an amendment to the Constitution, which has been ably supported by the honorable chairman of the committee [Mr Fessenden]. I do not propose to travel over the same ground, but I am free to say that one object I have in supporting that resolution is to deprive the rebel States while the rebel element predominates there as it must and will for some time whether you give suffrage to the black man or not of as much power in Congress as the Constitution and circumstances of the country demand and allow so that the men who have saved the Union can provide lasting securities for the future integrity, honor and peace of the nation. I also advocate the amendment [illegible] because it provides eventually that the negroes of the Southern States as soon as they have learned what it is to be free and not to be like dumb cattle driven, may come to the enjoyment of the elective franchise. And I believe that if this constitutional amendment is adopted and put before the people and the requisite number of States ratify it in the Southern States a party will spring up at once to advocate the extension of the elective franchise to the blacks. They will argue "If you do this you will increase the power of the State in the Federal Congress;" and that party in my judgment will grow and become stronger until it attains the ascendancy and after negroes are to some extent educated and invested [illegible] elective franchise will be conferred upon them by the action of the States themselves.

I say the amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri or the proposed law submitted by the Senator from Massachusetts make it operative [illegible] the rebel States at once and you make a line of demarkation between the white and black races white men will constitute one political party and the negroes will constitute another; and I think it is desirable for the sake of both races that some system shall be adopted that will divide and not consolidate the white men against the black men [illegible]

Mr. President in passing from the consideration of these constitutional amendments allow me to make a few remarks upon one or two other topics. Much has been said here about the President's policy and it is pressed upon this Senate as a necessity that Congress should adopt that policy. I do not know that I exactly understand what that policy is but presume that it means generally pardon to all the men who have been in rebellion with few exceptions the extension of the elective franchise to all those who will take the amnesty oath, the organization of State governments under the proclamations of the President and the immediate restoration of these States to their position in the Union [illegible]

[illegible] any substitute for the policy which he has proposed [illegible] that the true policy would have been to have kept them under a rather strictly military government until Congress could have convened [illegible] provided for the reorganization of these States [illegible] for the exclusion of rebels from power [illegible] Is it surprising that men who for four years have been hunting each other from mountain to swamp and back again and trying to cut each other's throats [illegible] There may be men there who [illegible] the fires are extinguished. [illegible] an individual can take coals of fire [illegible] be burned.

Charges have been made here [illegible] this floor that the Union party was disposed to keep these States in their present condition from political or party purposes. Is there any foundation for this imputation? Look at what transpired when the rebel armies were dispersed [illegible] the great conspiracy against the life of the nation had failed. Everywhere the people of the loyal States were thrown into a blaze of excitement [illegible] of their gratification was the anticipated speedy restoration to the Union of the disobedient and belligerent States. I make no question that some change has come over the public sentiment in this respect. What has caused that change? [illegible] public heart that then bounded with joy [illegible] this state of things? [illegible] their fathers and their brothers [illegible] pour out their treasure [illegible] division [illegible] was their object to secure a return of those States [illegible] consider what has been done what acts of magnanimity and generosity have been extended to these unrelenting, unguilty people [illegible] under the surprisingly liberal terms proposed by General Grant the [illegible] generous terms of General Sherman [illegible] remember the words of Abraham Lincoln — with malice toward none with charity for all — which were caught up by the sympathies of the people and [illegible] a nation's voice; when you consider that pardons have been scattered by President Johnson through the camps of treason like flower-seeds by the far winds of war [illegible] when you consider all these acts of magnanimity to mercy and kindness on the part of the people of the United States who put down this rebellion, and then look at the manner in which those acts have been received is it to be wondered at that doubts and fears and sorrowful misgivings to a [illegible] extent have seized upon the public mind? I know that [illegible] to what I am about to say but sir [illegible] feelings of respect or [illegible] have been received with feelings of hatred and [illegible] expressions of contempt and defiance. I know that history teaches that acts of magnanimity on the part of the conqueror toward the conquered will tend to conciliate and make peace but it seems a mistake, as though history was at fault as to these people, and as though there was nothing that would touch their hearts or their actions but the irresistible power of the Federal Government and the glare of the flashing swords and the glitter of the conquering bayonets.

Sir I do not wish to say anything harsh or unkind to these people. I desire that they should be restored as soon as they can be with safety to the country. I should rejoice to see them coming back penitent and reformed like the prodigal son and the nation going out to take them into its arms saying as did the father of old "This lost is found and the dead is alive again." I will say, in answer to the question asked me about Tennessee that I am inclined to the opinion that under the circumstances it would be advisable to try the experiment of speedy admission with that State. I have very little faith in theories. Opinions are as diverse amongst men as are the faces of those that express them. But here an experiment can be made. Tennessee is a State in which there are loyal men in which there are rebels and in which there are negroes. Let that State resume its position in the Union and let the experiment there be tried as to whether rebels are disposed or not to acquiesce in the authority of the Federal Government and accede to the loyal men the right to control and also as to whether or not the white people there will treat their negroes in their new condition according to the dictates of humanity and justice. Try that experiment. Experiment is better than theory. That will prove whether what is said of these rebels is true or not, and if it should turn out that they maintain after our recognition of the State the same spirit which they displayed during the rebellion then, sir I am for crushing out that spirit by force if necessary or giving it time enough in which to die; and I give notice now that whatever I may do as to Tennessee will not bind me as to any other of the rebel States. Conditions of recognition may be necessary for all the rebel States.

Much complaint has been made here as to the course of Congress toward the rebel States and considerable of it has emanated from the distinguished Senators from Kentucky; and while I wish to be entirely respectful but with a view of showing in what spirit these complaints are made, I desire to say that it has been announced on this floor by one of the honorable Senators from Kentucky [Mr Davis] in effect, that Slavery had always existed in the cotton and sugar growing States of this country, and always would exist no matter what the constitutional amendments or the legislation of Congress may be upon that subject. And I respectfully call the attention of the Senate to the fact that the first man in Congress since the rebellion who has undertaken to influence its legislation by a threat of dissolution is the distinguished Senator from Kentucky, [Mr Guthrie] who reported in the Chicago Convention the resolution that the war for the Union was a failure. That disgraceful declaration was trampled under foot by the loyal people of the North, while the confederacy, whose success it was intended to subserve was trampled by our soldiers into the bloody mire of the battle field. He said that the enactment of the Freedmen's Bureau bill would be a dissolution of the Union and we could not help it. Sir we can help it and we will help it. Is not the terrible experience of the last four years sufficient to satisfy the Senators?

Mr Guthrie.—Will the Senator allow me to explain

Mr Williams.—Certainly

Mr Guthrie.—The Senator has fallen into error and like many other Senators misunderstood what I said on that subject. I said that by the passage of the Freedmen's Bureau bill and the bill No. 61 and the other measures that were on foot, you gentlemen would accomplish or bring about what the rebellion had not done a dissolution of the Union. It was an expression of apprehension as to the effect of your measures, which I had a right to express. It was no threat.

I am sorry the gentleman has gone back to the Chicago convention. The expression in the resolution reported there was that the Administration had failed hitherto, or during the war, to bring about a restoration of the Union by war not that the war was a failure but only that there had been a failure up to that time to restore the Union.

Mr Williams.—I do not desire to do the honorable Senator any injustice but my attention was called to this matter yesterday by seeing in a Richmond newspaper reference made to his remark, and the paper seemed to think that expression as some kind of authority and alleged that if the President of the United States signed the bill organizing the Freedmen's Bureau it would greatly tend to fulfill the prediction of the Senator, and dissolve the Union. Sir, it is in vain to talk about dissolution. Let the man who dare strike a blow at the integrity of the Union and ten hundred thousand war worn veterans fresh from the fields of their fame and glory would spring to its defense. Sir one blast from the bugle-horn of Grant or Sherman or Sheridan would make every guilty traitor in this land turn pale and tremble. [Applause in the galleries.]

The Presiding Officer, (Mr. Hendricks.) Order!

Mr Williams.—Sir it is worse than idle to intimate that dissolution can ever occur. To admit the possibility of such a thing here is to profane the sanctuary of a nation's hope and trust, and I want to say to that Senator what I should think he would know by this time that secession in any shape or form is dead and damned and buried beyond the power or the hope of resurrection. [Applause in the galleries.]

The Presiding Officer.—Order!

Mr Williams.—Mr President, I have taxed the patience of the Senate too long. I will now conclude. I have to say that the way before us is not as clear as I wish it was but the sky is not so dark or the obstacles so insurmountable as they were when the fate of the nation hung in the doubtful scales of war. Patriotism, firmness, and union among Union men, rescued the nation from the hands of the spoilers and saved it and if the same spirit controls now in the councils of the nation that governed our soldiers in the field their triumph will be crowned by our success. God has written it among the shining decrees of destiny. Inspired by this hope and animated by this faith we will take this country through all its present troubles and perils to the promised land of perfect unity and peace where freedom equality and justice [illegible] rights [illegible] whose walls shall be salvation and whose gates praise.

SOMETHING NEW AND NOVEL.—A PATENT APPLIED FOR.—Mr. Hanbar has invented an article by which he can take any number of Head Pictures on the same plate without the subject getting up from the chair can get different positions of the face and all sizes of heads can put half dozen heads in the space of a half dollar, can put a whole family of heads on a [illegible] sized card and will sell pictures cheaper than any other Gallery on this coast. Has the process for taking the new and beautiful style of picture called the Porcelain or Sun Pearl [illegible] talked of in San Francisco. [illegible] has engaged a man from that place who has been making them for [illegible] in San Francisco.

Mr. H. is now prepared to do good work and in as great variety of style as any Gallery in [illegible]. Orders for full portrait size of photographs will be promptly attended to. [illegible]

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS FORMERLY OF LOCKE HOSPITAL LONDON, EIGHT YEARS IN SACRAMENTO AND THE LAST THREE YEARS IN SAN FRANCISCO

Experience is of forty years standing, and [illegible] time has met with unparalleled success in the [illegible] of all those diseases generally known as Venereal or Chronic.

It is impossible here to mention all the [illegible] with he is familiar; some, perhaps, will not [illegible] place. The most formidable, the most [illegible] mankind is Self Abuse. The brain being the [illegible] disease the whole system suffers in consequence. [illegible] here enumerate some of the symptoms, so that [illegible] flicted may be able to form an opinion in regard to [illegible] complaints and seek advice in time, thereby [illegible] themselves a world of suffering. Nervous [illegible] of Memory Pain in the Limbs and Back [illegible] the Heart Trembling of the Limbs Headache [illegible] Aversion to Social Society, especially that of [illegible] There are a great many more, but these are [illegible] and should you be suffering from any of these [illegible] DR TOZER, and he will cure you in a short time [illegible] out any interruption in your business—or state your case by letter and there will be no occasion for your [illegible] at the office

Stricture of the Urethra

Is another formidable enemy to health. Send for [illegible] my circulars on that disease, and inform yourself [illegible] terrible results. The worst cases cured in a few [illegible]

Venereal Diseases

In all their various forms, either Primary, Secondary, Hereditary, completely eradicated from the system [illegible] constitution being restored to perfect health, there [illegible] be no danger of it handing down to your children [illegible] rible disease known as Scrofula

Syphilitic Disease

As it presents itself on this coast, is of a more [illegible] character than that seen in the Atlantic States [illegible] arising from the fact of its being a compound of [illegible] Chinese and Sandwich Island disease. Those of [illegible] have visited the two latter countries no doubt [illegible] the dreadful effects of it on both the native and [illegible] population. It requires altogether different [illegible] treatment

The Old Formulas

Of Ricord Actel and Bostwick are of little [illegible] cept to dry up the disease on the surface [illegible] poison in the blood, which sooner or later will [illegible] itself as a secondary disease in an aggravated form [illegible] facts I have learned by experience and think [illegible] say without boasting that I have ever [illegible] these diseases than any other physician [illegible] dating as it does from 1849. It becomes you [illegible] to think well before you employ a physician. [illegible] Who is the proper one to consult—an old [illegible] one or one who has recently settled amongst you?

My Plan is Purely Vegetable,

Destroying the disease and purifying the blood, [illegible] there is no danger of secondary symptoms.

Rheumatism, Neuralgia,

And diseases arising from the use of Mercury, [illegible] pains in the shin bones, swelling of the [illegible] the body running sores etc, etc, and [illegible] liked cured in a short time by the use of my [illegible] ABLE MIXTURES, known only to myself.

Diseases Peculiar to Females

Such as Retention, Painful Menstruation, [illegible] been my study for a great number of years, [illegible] safely promise a perfect cure in a short time. [illegible] Be not deterred from calling on Dr. T [illegible] cacy or a fear of exposure as the Doctor [illegible] you can trust, and all cases are treated with [illegible] secrecy
